Officer retracts 'slut' slur

Toronto police launched investigation after Osgoode Hall students and staff complained about cop's comments

A Toronto police officer tasked with giving advice on keeping women safe on campus has now issued an apology for suggesting they could avoid sexual assault by not dressing "like sluts."

The comments were made during a campus safety information session at York University's Osgoode Hall Law School last month, which the officer was assigned by the force to lead.

The officer has written a letter of apology to the university's students and staff, Toronto police spokesman Mark Pugash said Thursday.

Pugash said the officer has been disciplined, but would not say how. He would not comment on the contents of the letter, citing privacy issues.

Some sexual assault advocates were unsatisfied, saying an apology doesn't make up for the damage the officer's words have caused by casting blame on victims.

"To have an organization like the police say that ... it really decreases the likelihood that survivors of sexual assault will talk to anyone," said Mila Guidorizzi, a training co-ordinator at the university's Sexual Assault Survivors' Support Line.

Guidorizzi said the officer should take one of their training sessions. "I think he could learn a lot from us."

Pugash said the Toronto police force has worked with outside organizations to develop a training program for sexual assault investigators.

"The comments that were made are clearly diametrically opposed to the way in which we train our people ... and the way in which we write about sexual assault."

APOLOGY

A Feb. 16 article about a Toronto police raid on Pizza Gigi restaurant on Harbord Street mistakenly included a photo of a 14-year-old Central Tech high school student with a photo caption that stated the youth had told "stories of drug use at the restaurant." In fact, the boy did not speak specifically about drug use at Pizza Gigi. Metro apologizes to the youth and his family.

Citizen's arrest bill restores balance: PM

Legislation spurred by case of a Chinatown store owner who was charged after nabbing a shoplifter

Prime Minister Stephen Harper credits the bad experience of a robbed Toronto shop owner with his government's new legislation to protect those who make citizen's arrests.

At a Toronto press conference Thursday, Harper said David Chen's "ordeal should have been avoided in the first place," adding law-abiding citizens shouldn't be targets of the justice system.

Before all charges against Chen and two employees at his Chinatown store were dismissed last October, he spent 18 months entangled in the justice system. They chased after a shoplifter who stole plants from Chen's Lucky Moose Food Mart in a van, catching up to him blocks away and making a citizen's arrest. They faced assault and other charges.

Harper said previous governments refrained from stiffening the law because "they wanted to avoid vigilantism." But he said many Canadians now believe "the right balance has been lost in the justice system" and the sense is that criminals are protected at the expense of victims.

He said the proposed change to the Criminal Code allows the "use of force if necessary."

Currently, a citizen's arrest is allowed only if an individual is caught in an offence. The legislation allows a "reasonable amount of time" to elapse and better helps people protect themselves and their property." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

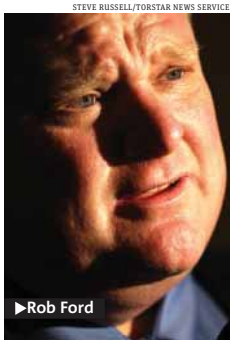
Doubt looms over private subway partner

Financial and political risk could discourage interest in Mayor Ford's Sheppard line extension: Expert

STEVE RUSSELL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE



▶Rob Ford

Taxpayers who want a subway on Sheppard Avenue should be careful what they wish for, if it takes a public-private partnership to get it built, as Mayor Rob Ford has suggested.

Residents may not even recognize their neighbourhood if developers turn Sheppard into a condo cavern to make back their money, warned Coun. Shelley Carroll (Don Valley East).

Ford was vague Thursday about the public/private finance-design-build proposal his office has made to Metrolinx. The idea would be to pay for the subway extension with a combination of development charges and tax increment financing.

"We haven't got any detailed info right now. We're just working with a number of people, a number of groups," Ford told reporters. "There's a number of issues that we're putting together. Things are going very well. I'm very, very sure that we're going to get to building Sheppard underground and building Eglinton underground."

The proposal, if accepted by the province, would replace the old Toronto-Metrolinx plan to build light rail along Sheppard, Finch and Eglinton and the old Scarborough RT route. That would free up the $8.15 billion the province has pledged for transit to put the Eglinton light rail line entirely underground from about Jane Street to Kennedy Station.

The SRT would be converted to either light rail or subway and the Finch LRT would be replaced with an express bus.

Tax increment financing (TIF) was introduced by finance minister Greg Sorbara in 2006 as a way to pay for the Spadina subway extension. It enables municipalities to borrow against future property tax revenues from land whose value shoots up after the subway is built.

Developers are enticed to build in the target area with grants that reduce the annual taxes they would normally have to pay. Over a period of years, those grants are phased out, resulting in much higher tax revenues to the city.

Toronto could also use private-sector partners to develop the subway station properties, explained MPP David Caplan, former public infrastructure renewal minister. A company could buy or lease a property, build offices, a mall or condos on top of the station, or develop a retail concourse and operate a concession there for 25 or 30 years, said Caplan, architect of the Liberal government's strategy for building public infrastructure with private money.

"Tax increment financing has been used in Europe to build transit. The public-private station development has been used in Asia. These aren't wild, risky ideas," Caplan said. "They're proven."

But Sheppard Ave. doesn't have anything like the population densities that typically support Asian-style developments, and experts couldn't cite a single instance where a Canadian project on the scale of the $4 billion Sheppard subway has been paid for exclusively with TIF and development charges.

Without a government financing guarantee, something the city and province might not be able to provide, Sheppard "is just fraught with immense risks," said Joseph D'Cruz, of the Rotman School of Management.

Sunday shopping advocate fur-lorn

DICK LOEK/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Paul Magder of Glen & Paul Magder Furs at 202 Spadina Ave. fought to make Sunday shopping legal.

There will be no more Sunday shopping at 202 Spadina Ave., the longtime home of Glen & Paul Magder Furs.

In fact, shopping will soon cease altogether at the local retail institution. After more than five decades of business — and a protracted fight with the government to legalize Sunday shopping — furrier Paul Magder is closing his Spadina location.

The store will reopen on Dundas Street West, where it will share space with Elite Furs, another Chinatown defector.

"Frankly, it's gotten to the point where we don't work for ourselves anymore," said Magder, 74. "We're working for the bank, the hydro company, the insurance. It's sad."

Over the past few years, Magder has seen his sales cut in half. Meanwhile, monthly expenses have skyrocketed to about $12,000 and last year, he paid about $35,000 in property tax.

Magder said several factors have combined to turf him from his current location: The recent economic downturn, fewer American shoppers and flagging fur sales. But he also blames what he calls "my tribulations with Sunday shopping."

For more than a decade, the furrier refused to close his fur shop on Sundays and was fined more than $500,000 as a result.

GTA man still stuck in American hospital

Wife has been so stressed by dire the situation that she also suffered a heart attack on Dec. 21

For more than two months, a Woodbridge woman has been keeping vigil by her husband's bedside in a U.S. hospital while trying to get him moved back home.

But Kokila Joshi is being told by hospital after hospital in the GTA that there are no beds here. Even her insurance company has had no luck getting her husband, Bipinderoy, repatriated.

The hospitals accept that there's a problem, saying the flu season has overwhelmed their already strained capacity. But so far nobody has been able to do anything about Joshi's plight.

Bipinderoy Joshi, 67, suffered a heart attack while on vacation in St. Louis, Mo. on Dec. 8. He has been in the SSM St. Joseph Health Center ever since. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Stuck

- Rehab Kokila Joshi tried to have her husband transferred directly to a rehab hospital in the GTA, the West Park Healthcare Centre, to no avail.
- Relatives Joshi continues to stay by her husband's side. She has been bunking with relatives in St. Louis, and their three adult children have all made trips there to see their father.
- Premier In desperation, Kokila has even sent a letter to Premier Dalton McGuinty, pleading for help.

10 Canadian citizen Bipinderoy Joshi has been stuck in an American hospital for 10 weeks.

uBuddy brings students together

A group of University of Toronto students have designed a social networking platform that they believe will save time and prevent aggravation among students.

uBuddy, designed by engineering student Charles Qu, is the first academic social networking platform that allows students to effectively facilitate note-sharing, meetings and course discussions online.

"It brings all those features together," said uBuddy Communications Director, Ryan McDougall. "It's built by students for the students."

McDougall said that since the official launching of uBuddy last week they have already hit 1,000 registered users and the group has plans to grow some more.

Currently, uBuddy is available exclusively to UofT students, but McDougall said the networking site will spread.

"We plan on opening the platform to other campuses," he said.

First-year students in large classes looking to meet people to, for example, form study groups, or simply make friends, will get the most out of the social networking platform. MARK HERBERT

I don't do anything for nothing: Ruby

Teen in Berlusconi sex scandal wants $20,340 for an interview
Says she's 'been hurt so much'

The Moroccan teenager at the centre of the Berlusconi sex scandal says "all the gold in the world" could not make up for the suffering she has endured.

In an email exchange with The Associated Press, the teen nicknamed Ruby the Heartstealer says she has been "treated as a prostitute by all the Italian and foreign media."

"I WANT TO BE COMPENSATED for having been hurt so much," Ruby, whose real name is Karima el-Mahroug, wrote to the AP in Italian.

Ruby, now 18, requested $20,340 for a full TV interview from the AP, saying: "I don't do anything for nothing."

Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi was indicted Tuesday on charges he paid for sex with Ruby when she was 17 and under age, then used his influence to cover it up.

The abuse of influence charge relates to efforts by the premier to get Ruby out of the custody of Milan police when she was detained in May for an unrelated suspected theft.

His trial begins April 6 in Milan.

Berlusconi, 74, has denied ever paying for sex. He has dismissed the accusations as "groundless" and said he is not worried by the trial.

Ruby has also denied a sexual relationship with Berlusconi, saying he never "put a finger on me."

But she said he had given her $9,500 on their first meeting. Ruby said at the time she identified herself as Egyptian and gave her age as 24, rather than 17.

U.S. will beat China in jets: Defence chief

The U.S. will have a far bigger fleet of top-end fighter planes than China for years to come, the U.S. defence chief said Thursday.

Robert Gates said China faces a "long road" before deploying its J-20 Stealth fighter in any numbers.

Gates said the U.S. would retain far more "fifth-generation" fighter jets than China for years.

His comments appeared designed to tamp down concern over China's military buildup.

▶ Habib el-Adly

Former minister under arrest

CORRUPTION. Egyptian authorities arrested former Interior Minister Habib el-Adly Thursday and two other ex-ministers who are under investigation for corruption, security officials said.

El-Adly, whose job gave him control over the 500,000-strong security forces, has been widely blamed for the deadly brutality used by riot police against demonstrators in massive protests that began Jan. 25 and forced leader Hosni Mubarak to step down Feb. 11.

UNREST. The GP2 Asia Series race in Bahrain was cancelled Thursday amid anti-government protests that have left four dead overnight — leaving next month's season-opening Formula One race at the same circuit in doubt as well. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Allegations of abuse surface

EGYPT. Detainees held in lockups run by Egypt's military say they were forced to strip to their underwear, whipped and subjected to electric shocks, according to testimony published Thursday. The detainees had been rounded up as part of a crackdown on anti-government protesters before the ouster of leader Hosni Mubarak. Amnesty International urged the military to halt mistreatment in its lockups and release all protesters in detention.

Riot police ambush

Five killed in early morning raid ● Protesters calling for sweeping political reform ● Inspired by toppling of rulers in Egypt and Tunisia

As international leaders urged Bahrain to use restraint following a predawn raid that left five dead and hundreds more injured, its foreign minister justified the crackdown as necessary because protesters were "polarizing the country" and pushing it to the "brink of sectarian abyss."

Khalid Al Khalifa told reporters the violence was "regrettable," as soldiers and tanks patrolled the streets and public gatherings were banned in the capital.

However, the crackdown has only ignited more fury among the protesters who sought refuge in the parking lot outside the Salmaniya hospital Thursday.

Their calls to oust the unelected prime minister and his cabinet have grown to targeting a man long seen as untouchable in this Gulf island kingdom: King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa.

"Using tear gas, batons, and rubber bullets on peaceful protesters is the worst kind of response to a non-violent demonstration."

U.S. SENATOR JOHN KERRY

"The first person responsible for this is the king. He is responsible for the killing, for the attacks on women and children," said Jaffer Abdulhassan.

He sits outside the hospital, tears streaming down his face. His older brother, Essa Abdulhassan, 57, was shot by police Thursday morning after he joined a contingent of protesters trying to escort ambulances back to those injured near the square.

His body lies in a mortuary steps away, open to a steady stream of people who want to see it.

Demonstrators have used their cellphones to snap pictures of his face — brutalized from the nose up by what they believe was a rifle blast — to show their fellow protesters, further inciting their anger against the government.

Palin still cagey about running for president

Sarah Palin stuck to her guns on "death panels" Thursday, and on guns for that matter, in a rare public appearance in which reporters were allowed.

She continued tweaking Michelle Obama's efforts to fight childhood obesity, but chided some of her own supporters for sustaining the "annoying" claims that U.S. President Barack Obama is foreign-born and Muslim.

As for the big question — whether she's running for president in 2012 — the former vice-presidential Republican nominee said she's thinking about it.

"No one is more qualified, really to multi-tasking and the things you need to do as president than a woman, a mom," said the former Alaska governor, who has five children.

It was Palin's first major public appearance since U.S. Rep. Gabrielle Giffords was critically wounded and six people were killed at an event Giffords held in her Tucson, Ariz., congressional district.

MARIO TAMA/GETTY IMAGES

Palin was criticized after the shootings for having published campaign literature that marked some Democratic districts, including Giffords', with crosshairs, but she pushed back, saying Republicans were being unfairly blamed for the act of a crazed shooter.

Palin criticized Obama on a range of issues, from his handling of the recent democratic uprising in Egypt to his latest budget proposal, which she said would do little to close the deficit.

Whether she runs for president in 2012 or not, Palin predicted an unconventional Republican contest in which social media would play a pivotal role.

She also praised the Tea Party movement, saying it had forced Republicans and Democrats to "rethink the way they do business."

▶ Thousands of protesters gather at the Salmaniya Hospital in Manama Thursday afternoon after Bahraini security forces clashed with protesters in the Pearl Square and forced an evacuation.

Security shaky in Egypt

Families in quiet Cairo suburbs are investing heavily in locks and steel doors. Fake checkpoints set up by hardened criminals who escaped prisons terrorize travellers on highways. Thousands of looted firearms have flooded the black market.

Egypt's political upheaval has been followed by an unprecedented breakdown of security, with few police on the streets and the army unable to fill the vacuum.

Some Egyptians who have just seen their long-time authoritarian ruler Hosni Mubarak overthrown by a popular uprising are already nostalgic for his police state.

Egypt's security forces, including police, number at least 500,000, slightly more than the armed forces. Though hated by Egyptians for their heavy handedness and rampant corruption, they had kept the country relatively safe.

That was the case before they mysteriously disappeared from the streets Jan. 28 following deadly clashes with protesters whose massive anti-government demonstrations forced Mubarak to step down.

Additionally, low-income apartments built by the Housing Ministry or local governments have been seized by criminal gangs and poor families looking to move from shanty towns.

50 About 50 per cent of the police force nationwide is now back on the streets.

Tour boat sinks off the Vietnam coast

12 people die in Ha Long Bay, one of the country's top attractions

Italian traveller Stefano Corda felt an ominous tilt as dinner was served, but his tour boat crew assured him everything was fine. A few hours later, Corda and his friend jumped for their lives into Vietnam's famed Ha Long Bay as water raced inside the wooden vessel.

Vacationers along with their Vietnamese tour guide died Thursday in Vietnam's deadliest tour boat accident since the country opened to foreign visitors 25 years ago. All were sleeping on the overnight ship, which was anchored in about 10 metres of water near a small island. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Survivors

Vietnam's foreign ministry confirmed the foreign survivors as two Danes, one German, two Italians, one American, one Australian, one French and one Swiss.

- Ha Long Bay, a UN World Heritage site dotted with limestone formations, is located near the Chinese border in the Gulf of Tonkin, about three hours east of the capital, Hanoi.
- In 2009, a tour boat sank during a storm, killing five, including three foreign vacationers.

More Quotes = More Savings On Car Insurance

Do You Love Shopping Around For The Best Deal?

If you're like most people, you'll often spend hours doing research, checking flyers, looking for specials, and running from one store to another to make sure you get the best possible price on everyday items such as; clothes, electronics, furniture, and even groceries. Nothing beats the thrill of knowing you paid less for something by shopping at one place instead of the other, right? It all adds up – the time you invest and knowing where to go to get the best deals could end up saving you a bundle in the long run.

When Was The Last Time You Shopped for Car Insurance?

Sadly, even the smartest shoppers often don't spend nearly the same amount of time and energy shopping for car insurance as they do for other items. After all, car insurance can be confusing, it never goes "on sale" (it only seems to get more expensive), it isn't much "fun" to buy, and it seems like no one place always has the best prices. But what if one place compared the rates from over 30 insurance companies? And what if it would only take about 10 minutes? And what if you could end up saving hundreds, or even thousands of dollars? This is where InsuranceHotline.com can help by providing a free unbiased rate comparison service for your driving profile that can connect you with the lowest rate available through our large network of licensed brokers and agents.

Don't Be Fooled By Others Offering To "Compare Quotes"

Unlike most of its competitors, InsuranceHotline.com does not sell insurance, is not a licensed broker or agent, and is not owned in whole or in part by an insurance company. This allows InsuranceHotline.com to be unbiased when providing insurance quotes and keeps its focus solely on finding lower insurance rates for consumers. By contrast, most websites offering to "compare insurance quotes" are owned by or affiliated with insurance brokers or agents and are therefore only capable of quoting rates from the limited number of insurance companies they represent, typically no more than 4 or 5.

Rate Comparison

Driving Record	Lowest Price	Highest Price	Savings
Clean Record	$958	$2,213	$1,255
1 Ticket	$1,018	$2,552	$1,534

Ex-nurse leaves fate to judge in suicide case

Minnesota man accused of aiding suicide of Carleton student from Brampton waives right to jury trial

Once a week, Deborah Chevalier makes the short trip from her home in Brampton to the cemetery where her daughter is buried, tenderly clears the snow from her grave and sits down to remember.

It's a way to stay close to her Nadia, who drowned herself in 2008, believing she had entered into a suicide pact with a female nurse online. But prosecutors say Nadia Kajouji was actually communicating with William Melchert-Dinkel, a Minnesota man and former nurse who had no intention of killing himself but enjoyed preying on depressed people, telling police he did it for the "thrill of the chase."

Melchert-Dinkel, 48, has been charged with two counts of aiding suicide, each carrying a maximum sentence of 15 years in prison.

On Thursday, he pleaded not guilty before a southern Minnesota judge but accepted evidence gathered in the case and waived his right to a jury trial. Rice County District Court Judge Thomas Neuville set oral arguments for a week later and said he would decide the case within 20 days of that hearing.

Chevalier said even if Melchert-Dinkel is convicted, it will not be enough for the man she believes pushed her daughter over the edge.

"I do not believe that any punishment they will put on him will be what he deserves," she said.

Mexican diplomat acts out in Paris

The Mexican Embassy in Paris says its ambassador has walked out of a meeting at the French senate in the latest chapter in an ongoing diplomatic spat over the fate of a French woman convicted in Mexico on kidnapping charges.

In a statement Thursday, the embassy said Ambassador Carlos de Icaza "sadly found himself obliged to leave" an event at the senate the previous evening after France's foreign minister mentioned the case of Florence Cassez.

Now that I have my cochlear implants, I hear SickKids needs donations.

Mia, 9
Diagnosed with complete hearing loss at 6 months old.

When Mia came to SickKids, she couldn't hear.
When she left us, she could.
At only 11 months old, Mia had cochlear implant surgery.
(A cochlear implant is a hearing device that bypasses damaged portions of the ear and directly stimulates the auditory nerve.)
Mia was among the first children in North America to receive this remarkable implant before the age of one.
SickKids researchers are trying to determine the genetic causes of hearing loss and how to prevent it.
We have to find more ways to improve the lives of sick children.
Research is key.

Scientific breakthroughs will lead to better vaccines, drugs and other treatments that will slow disease and save lives.
Discoveries mean kids like Mia will spend less time in the hospital.
Your donations help pay for leading-edge equipment and facilities that help our researchers turn lab findings into improved care for kids.
You fund the training of the next generation of child health experts.
Without you it will be simply impossible to sustain the world-class research that takes place at SickKids.

U.S. lawmaker showing strong signs of progress

Gabrielle Giffords able read out Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star Suspect allegedly killed six people in shooting spree

A U.S. congresswoman shot in the head last month is able to laugh at jokes, recognize visitors and even offer a poignant response when asked recently by her husband how she was doing.

"Better," Rep. Gabrielle Giffords said, in one of the first words she uttered since being shot Jan. 8 at a community event in her home state of Arizona.

Family friend Tilman Fertitta described the encounters to The Associated Press after spending time with her family and friends and recently visiting Giffords at TIRR Memorial Hermann in Houston, where she is undergoing intensive rehabilitation.

SUSAN WALSH/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

▶ Gabrielle Giffords

Giffords has been showing strong signs of progress each day as she recovers from her wounds and her husband, astronaut Mark Kelly, spends time at her bedside. Kelly has been splitting his days between the hospital and training for the next space shuttle launch in April.

"There's lots of excitement as she continues to speak more and improve," he added. "She's in a great mood and working hard."

"She recognizes everybody," Fertitta added.

Kelly has said Giffords will attend the shuttle launch, but doctors said it was still too early to say whether she would be in good enough shape to travel to Cape Canaveral, Fla., to watch her husband head the mission.

Blast in Tanzania divides families

Country's president promises investigation into city's second fatal ammo explosion in less than two years

Thousands of people took refuge in a crowded stadium in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, Thursday after a military ammunition depot exploded and showered the city with a series of blasts, killing at least 25 and prompting a stampede getaway.

In the mayhem of residents fleeing the blasts, more than 150 children lost track of their parents, and officials appealed for mothers and fathers to report to the stadium to reunite with their children.

"People were just running, so some children were lost in the mobs of people. Now at the centres we are trying to get them connected with their relatives," Red Cross worker Julius Kejo said.

KHALFAN SAID/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Lost children are cared for at the Uhuru stadium camp, where thousands of people have taken refuge after an explosion at a military camp near Dar es Salaam, Tanzania.

Several houses and a school were levelled during the blasts, which sent huge orange bursts into the night sky. Debris showered parts of the city 15 kilometres from the Gongola Mboto military base where the depot was located.

On the base, 23 weapons-storage facilities, five vehicles, two soldier dormitories and the general store were destroyed, said Lt. Col. Kapambala Mgawe.

Fallout

- The blasts closed the city's international airport, near the Gongola Mboto military base, though it opened later Thursday.
- Some 4,000 residents were evacuated to the national stadium in Dar es Salaam, which lies along the Indian Ocean in East Africa.
- Hidan Ricco, the head of Tanzania's Red Cross disaster management team, said there were about 200 unaccompanied children at the stadium, some of whom are only months old.

▶ Jason Kenney suggests would-be newcomers over the age of 49 get no points for their age but people under the age of 35 get 12 points.

Kenney points the way

Minister wants to rejig immigration numbers game He will give points to would-be newcomers who speak one of our official languages

Future newcomers to Canada will be younger, less educated and more fluent in English or French if Ottawa's immigration proposals become a reality.

But the changes may skew the sources of Canadian immigration, says one expert.

"It looks like a big part of this is just a shift in source countries," said Mikal Skuterud, a professor at the University of Waterloo who closely tracks immigrants' progress.

Immigration Minister Jason Kenney launched a month of public consultations Thursday on the proposed changes.

He wants to rejig the point system Canada uses.

Research shows the biggest factor in immigrants' financial success is the ability to speak an official language. So Kenney wants more points given for language proficiency.

Tories accused of hiding cost of new crime laws

The government anticipates adding more than 2,700 beds to men's and women's prisons across Canada in coming years.

The parliamentary budget officer says MPs have been denied the information they need to evaluate the cost of anti-crime legislation.

Kevin Page told the Commons public safety committee Thursday there has not been "sufficient fiscal transparency" when it comes to weighing these expenditures.

The federal government says it will spend $2 billion over five years to absorb more prisoners due to stiffer sentencing provisions in new legislation.

Page said a single piece of legislation to eliminate a two-for-one credit for time already served prior to sentencing will cost the federal government $5 billion over five years.

The government didn't provide estimated costs until after the legislation became law and didn't include details on methodology and key assumptions, he said.

Public Safety Minister Vic Toews, who also appeared before the committee, defended the government's planned expenditures, saying it would not apologize for trying to make Canada safer.

"We understand there's a cost to keeping dangerous criminals behind bars. It is, however, a price we are willing to pay."

Kormos blasts human trafficking strategy

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Peter Kormos calls official efforts "pathetic."

Critics are calling the Ontario government's investment to combat human trafficking an election campaign strategy that fails to address the complexities of the issue.

The government announced Monday it will invest $1.95 million over three years to support victims of human trafficking, including a crisis hotline.

The province says it is also taking steps to raise awareness of the issue and have special Crown attorneys prosecute cases.

NDP critic Peter Kormos says the program fails to address the fact that many human trafficking cases don't get prosecuted because of a lack of resources.

He also pointed out many human trafficking cases occur on a federal level.

"This is a pathetic effort on the part of the government during the course of an election campaign to show an interest in the subject," said Kormos.

But Attorney General Chris Bentley said: "Human trafficking is an appalling crime.

"We are committed to doing everything we can to protect and support victims, vigorously prosecute cases and eliminate human trafficking in Ontario."

Solar storm lapping at our planet

Some northern regions may see cool sky show Friday night

Scientists say a solar flare the evening of Feb. 14 is causing radio disruptions and may put on a cool sky show Friday night in some northern regions. But they say the solar storm zapping Earth is not that big or troublesome.

Bob Rutledge, who is lead forecaster for the U.S. government's Space Weather Prediction Center, said the solar X-ray flare is the largest of its type since December 2006.

175 There are about 175 solar flares of this strength every decade or so.

This solar storm rates an R-3 on a five-point scale. It's on the weak end of what's considered strong.

Rutledge said some commercial airliners have reported radio disruptions, but no harm. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gas taxes shouldn't fund pro rinks: Poll

A new poll indicates which way the wind was blowing for that short-lived Conservative trial balloon on arena funding.

The Canadian Press Harris-Decima survey found that respondents overwhelmingly rejected the idea of using federal gas-tax revenues to help build pro sports facilities.

More than two-thirds — 69 per cent — of the more than 1,000 respondents said gas taxes shouldn't be used for rinks, while barely one-quarter said it was a good plan.

48 Within 48 hours, the gas tax proposal was shot down by Chuck Strahl, the transport and infrastructure minister.

The naysayers actually climbed to 72 per cent among self-identified Conservatives.

Even in Quebec — the national high-water mark for support for the gas-tax notion — only 32 per cent of respondents said they liked the idea.

"Clearly, this suggests the basic logic of keeping the gas-tax revenue earmarked for what it was originally intended" — roads, sewers, bridges and the like, said pollster Doug Anderson of Harris-Decima. THE CANADIAN PRESS

MP's rant racist: Court

Supreme Court of Canada says MP Andre Arthur's on-air comments about cabbies of Arab and Haitian origin did not result in a personal injury

The silence was deafening Thursday from the usually loquacious Andre Arthur.

The former radio shock jock-turned-independent MP dodged a huge legal bullet when the Supreme Court of Canada spared him paying hundreds of thousands of dollars in damages to a group of Montreal taxi drivers. But not before seven judges of the country's highest court branded Arthur's 1998 on-air rant toward Haitian and Arab taxi drivers as racist.

Arthur disappeared from Parliament Hill after Thursday's ruling.

His lawyers in Montreal said he would not be saying anything further.

Cigarette seizures against the law: Group

14 In early January, officials seized 14 million cigarettes from a property on the Montana First Nation near Hobbema in central Alberta.

Tobacco is fanning the flames of a dispute between what native people say is their sacred right and what the province maintains is within its jurisdiction.

The Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations says the provincial government doesn't have the authority to apply its tobacco tax laws on reserves and should butt out. The issue has been brought to the forefront with several highly publicized tobacco seizures in Western Canada. "The provincial government's attempt to assert ... jurisdiction over First Nations is unconstitutional," federation vice-chief Morley Watson said in a news release Thursday.

"The tobacco seizures are a direct violation of Section 35 under the Constitution Act indicating that the Crown will consult with First Nations, not the provinces."

Tobacco enforcement officials with Saskatchewan's Finance Ministry said they seized 100 cartons of cigarettes illegally imported into the province earlier this month. THE CANADIAN PRESS

No election if Hamas won't take part: Abbas

Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas said Thursday that elections won't be held by September as planned if the Gaza Strip's Hamas rulers won't allow balloting there.

Abbas' West Bank-based government called the long-delayed presidential and parliamentary elections over the weekend, but the rival Islamic Hamas has said Gaza will not take part in the vote.

"Unless we are capable of holding elections in both the West Bank and Gaza, then we will not hold elections," Abbas told reporters in Ramallah Thursday.

Abbas governs the West Bank but lost control of Gaza to Hamas in a violent 2007 takeover. Several attempts to reconcile the two factions have failed.

Abbas aides said the Palestinian president had not backed down on his commitment to the vote. Senior adviser Yasser Abed Rabbo said that, if necessary, the Palestinian Authority would find a "creative" way to circumvent any Hamas opposition so Gazans would be able to take part.

Measures being explored include voting by Internet, Palestinian officials have said.

Music group dad admits to sex abuse

Could face up to life in prison on first-degree felony and up to 15 years each on second-degree felonies

The distraught father of The 5 Browns musical group pleaded guilty Thursday to sexually abusing his daughters when they were children.

Keith Brown, 55, entered his plea to three felony counts in Fourth District Court.

Dressed in dark slacks and a grey overcoat, Brown appeared in court with his sister-in-law by his side.

Brown chose to enter the plea to bring a quick resolution to the case, defence attorney Steven Shapiro said.

Utah County prosecutors charged Brown with one first-degree felony count of sodomy on a child and two second-degree felony counts of sexual abuse of a child.

Brown's three daughters and two sons are part of the classical piano group The 5 Browns, whose albums have topped the classical music charts and who have appeared on Oprah. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Passenger fee to enter U.S. not sitting well

Charging Canadian visitors to enter the United States would hinder trade and travel between the two countries, Prime Minister Stephen Harper said Thursday as a proposed "passenger inspection fee" ruffled feathers on both sides of the border.

Harper's voice was just one of many as Canadians registered their disapproval with the American idea of requiring Canadian and Mexican air and sea travellers to each pay a $5.50 fee every time they venture stateside.

Harper expressed empathy for the U.S. and its dismal fiscal state — a staggering $14-trillion national debt — but said "additional taxes" on Canadian travellers wouldn't solve anything.

The fee would continue to exclude travellers in private vehicles, sparing those who often cross the border. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Safe injection site gets booster for court fight

Harm reduction groups to intervene in Vancouver facility's case Tory government wants site closed

The operators of Vancouver's safe drug injection site will have some allies in a Supreme Court of Canada case that will decide the future of the facility.

The high court has granted intervenor status in the case to the International Harm Reduction Association, the Canadian HIV/AIDS Legal Network and CACTUS Montreal, which will all argue in favour of the facility, called Insite.

The federal government is challenging a B.C. Appeal Court ruling that found Insite is a health facility and falls under provincial jurisdiction, not federal.

JEFF HODSON/METRO FILE

▶ A used needle depository at Insite, Vancouver's supervised injection site.

The site had been operating under an exemption from federal drug laws, but the Conservative government had indicated it wanted to end that exemption and see the supervised injection site closed.

HIV/AIDS Legal Network director Richard Elliott says Insite is an international success story but the federal government is ignoring scientific evidence and the need for harm reduction policies.

Rick Lines of the Harm Reduction Association says there's extensive evidence that safe injection sites save lives by reducing the injection behaviour that can transmit HIV and hepatitis C. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pinned between his religion and a girl

First time girls qualify for state wrestling tournament in Iowa One competitor defaults rather than fight a female, citing his spiritual beliefs

A standout Iowa high school wrestler refused to compete against a girl at the state tournament Thursday, relinquishing any chance of becoming a champion because he says wrestling a girl would conflict with his religious beliefs.

Joel Northrup, a homeschooled sophomore who was 35-4 wrestling for Linn-Mar High School this season, praised his first-round opponent, Cedar Falls freshman Cassy Herkelman, and Ottumwa sophomore Megan Black, who became the first two girls to make the state wrestling tournament in its 85-year history.

But in a brief statement issued through his school, Northrup said he defaulted on his match with Herkelman because he doesn't think boys and girls should compete in the sport.

"As a matter of conscience and my faith I do not believe that it is appropriate for a boy to engage a girl in this manner."
JOEL NORTHRUP

"I have a tremendous amount of respect for Cassy and Megan and their accomplishments. However, wrestling is a combat sport and it can get violent at times," said Northrup.

There were several thousand fans at Wells Fargo Arena Thursday, but many were watching other matches when the referee raised Herkelman's hand to signal her win.

There was a smattering of cheers and boos from the crowd before Herkelman was whisked into the bowels of the arena.

Tournament organizers declined to make Herkelman available for questions. She entered the tournament with a 20-13 record and will wrestle Friday in the quarter-finals of the 112-pound (50.8-kilogram) weight class.

Her father, Bill Herkelman, told The Associated Press via text message that he understands and respects Northrup's decision.

"It's nice to get the first win and have her be on the way to the medal round," Bill Herkelman wrote.

"I sincerely respect the decision of the Northrup family, especially since it was made on the biggest stage in wrestling. I have heard nothing but good things about the Northrup family and hope Joel does very well the remainder of the tourney."

According to the National Federation of State High School Associations, more than 6,000 girls competed in wrestling in 2009-10 — compared with nearly 275,000 boys.

Though most states require girls to wrestle boys, California, Hawaii, Texas, Washington and Tennessee sponsor girls-only high school wrestling tournaments.

on screaming TV ads

There are no laws in Canada dealing with TV ad volumes, though the U.S. and U.K. have rules More than 600 complaints in past three years

If you think TV ads are annoyingly loud or shrill, the CRTC wants to hear from you.

The federal regulator has invited viewers to offer opinions on the issue by April 18, with an eye to fixing the problem of commercials that sound louder than the programming they interrupt.

Loud ads are a "significant annoyance," said Konrad von Finckenstein, chairman of the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission.

Last week, Conservative MP Nina Grewal tabled a private member's bill to require broadcasters to ensure volumes match between commercials and the accompanying show.

Asked about the bill, Liberal Leader Michael Ignatieff said he was sympathetic and the issue "is clearly on the minds of millions of Canadians."

On its web page, the CRTC lists a number of reasons TV ads may seem to scream while trying to sell.

They include audio compression levels that are set at maximum loudness and in high frequencies and the fact that an ad may directly follow a tranquil moment in the program.

IMPORTANT: PLEASE READ THIS NOTICE AS IT MAY AFFECT YOUR RIGHTS

TO: All Current or Past Payday Loan Customers of Unicash or Planinvest Consulting limited c.o.b. Unicash

NOTICE OF CERTIFICATION OF A CLASS PROCEEDING, AND APPROVAL OF SETTLEMENT

PURPOSE OF THIS NOTICE

On February 7, 2011, the Ontario Superior Court of Justice certified as a class proceeding an action brought against Unicash Franchising Inc., carrying on business as Unicash Financial Centres and Planinvest Consulting Limited, carrying on business as Unicash ("Unicash"), and approved a settlement of this class action.

The Action alleged that the interest charged by Unicash on payday loans violated section 347 of the Criminal Code and sought damages on behalf of the Class. The settlement reached by the parties is a compromise of disputed claims, and is not an admission of liability by Unicash.

Unicash sold its assets in February 2008 and no longer carries on business.

The Class Members are:

"all persons in Canada who have entered into payday loans with Planinvest Consulting Limited, carrying on business as Unicash ("Unicash"), and who have paid or been charged interest on a payday loan from Unicash" (the "Class").

THE TERMS OF THE SETTLEMENT

1. The Defendants agree to take no collection action against any Class Members in respect of any defaulted payday loans. Class Members may rely upon the Settlement Agreement and the Court's order as a full defence to any action commenced against them by the defendants in respect of payday loans that are in default.
2. The Defendants are to pay a total of $155,000 (the "Settlement Fund") to be distributed:
   - a. first, to the costs associated with providing this notice of the settlement and certification;
   - b. second, 10% of the balance of the Settlement Fund will be paid to the Class Proceedings Fund as required by statute;
   - c. third, to Class Counsel's fees, disbursements and taxes; and
   - d. fourth, the remaining balance will be paid to InCharge Canada Debt Solutions, a not-for-profit consumer credit advocacy agency, to assist consumers with debt problems.

No Settlement funds will be paid directly to the members of the Class.

This is a summary only. The full terms of the settlement and the court's order and reasons approving the settlement are available to be viewed at www.unicashclassaction.com

OPTING OUT OF THE CLASS ACTION AND SETTLEMENT

If you fall within the definition of the Class, and you do not wish to be bound by the terms of the settlement or otherwise do not wish to be included in this class action, you have the right to opt out. If you wish to be excluded from the settlement and this class proceeding, then you must advise Class Counsel in writing by no later than May 9, 2011, by sending a letter, including your full name and address to Paliare Roland Rosenberg Rothstein LLP, 250 University Avenue, Suite 501, Toronto, Ontario, M5H 3E5.

High time for wine: Study

Beer still dominates Canadian market, but wine sales closing in fast ◆ Brewers pooh-pooh the trend

Wine consumption in Canada will grow six times faster than the global average over the next three years. And more Canadians are slaking their thirst with wine rather than beer, says a study released Thursday in Toronto by Vinexpo, the world's largest wine trade show.

The 28-country study forecasts that wine sales will grow by 19 per cent in Canada through 2014, while worldwide sales will grow by three per cent.

Beer sales, meanwhile, have been falling for the past 20 years, Statistics Canada says. While beer remains Canada's tipple of choice, with more than $8.8 billion in sales and 46 per cent alcohol market share in 2009, that's down from a peak market share of 53 per cent in 1993. During the same period, wine jumped to 29 per cent from 18 per cent of the market.

"In every market but China, beer sales are falling," said Vinexpo CEO Robert Beynat.

While the long-term trend for beer isn't great, that doesn't mean suds are dead in the country, says Jeff Newton. Newton, president of Canada's National Brewers, a trade association, says beer is still the first thing Canadians reach for when they feel like popping a cold one.

"I don't really see the day where wine will take over," he said. He says sales of premium beer, including those from small craft breweries, are in fact growing. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

5 MINUTES WITH: BILL ROBERTS

Vision TV's adventurous CEO will scale Mount Kilimanjaro Feb. 28 in support of female empowerment in eastern Africa.

You head up Canada's largest spiritual television network, but you're also an avid mountain climber. Has climbing informed your faith in any way?
Oh yeah, it has. I think they have been very much entwined. I remember when I skied to the North Pole it was almost a meditative state. I am completely mesmerized by being all senses open to my surroundings and that's a very spiritual sense of being.

What effect does climbing have on you?
I think it must be the same thing that draws people to extreme exploration. There's a wonderfully sublime beauty about mountains. It's really where human beings don't belong. Aside from that, the physical aesthetic beauty, that kind of sublime moment, is a bit threatening. And that's part of the word sublime also: The sublime has a little bit of danger in it, and it's often a magnet once you've been hit by that pole.

What made you decide to tackle Kilimanjaro?
I'm raising funds for CARE Canada, and the fundraising I'm doing for them is focused pretty uniquely on women and girls in East Africa. I feel pretty strongly about that. Statistics show that for every year of schooling that a girl in the developing world gets, her family's income goes up 20 per cent. There are billions of dollars spent on development and capacity building in the developing world, but I'm a little cynical about that when it's given to men, to be honest. It ends up — I'm being anecdotal — in Swiss bank accounts or the hands of warlords or tyrants, and the evidence is when it ends up in the hands of women things really do change, they do get better. CARE Canada takes that money and develops programs for girls.

Vision TV started as a network to explore faith and spirituality. Is there a "vision" you'd still like to see fulfilled?
I would like the discussion around faith and spirituality to be more a dialogue and an exchange of people and faiths pulling together as opposed to pulling apart. If we could come back to rendering onto others what we wish for ourselves as a starting point for multifaith and multicultural discussion in Canada, I think that would be a huge step forward.

Worth mentioning

Ice age Britons drank from human skulls and may even have eaten flesh and bone marrow, but they were far from barbarians.

That's the conclusion of experts studying the oldest known examples of "skull cups," found in a cave in southwest England.

The bowls look almost like works of art, ritual items laced with meaning. Look more closely, however, and it becomes clear they are made from human skulls. Scientists say they are the oldest known carbon-dated skull cups, said by experts to be about 14,700 years old.

British scientists writing in the Public Library of Science journal maintain the cups were fashioned in such a meticulous way that the only credible explanation for their manufacture is that they were used as bowls to hold liquid. If the hunters and gatherers simply wanted to eat the deceased person's brains, there would have been far easier ways to get at them, scientists said.

Experts believe the rare cups — two made from adults skulls, one from a child thought to be about three years old — were used in some sort of ritual, as was common in many parts of the world.

Will James and Anne shine on Oscar night?

The Reel Guys debate the interesting selection of James Franco and Anne Hathaway as Oscar hosts

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Richard Crouse: Mark, I have to say I don't really care who hosts the Oscars. For me the show is about the movies, not the hosts. But I think the choice of Anne Hathaway and James Franco is kind of intriguing, especially since Franco said publicly, "If it's the worst Oscar show ever, who cares?" With that attitude he may bring some much needed danger to the proceedings.

Mark Breslin: Sorry, Richard, I cannot agree! The Oscar hosts are incredibly important to the show. How else are we going to get through the awards for Best Documentary Short, Best Sound Editing and the Jean Hirshholt Humanitarian Award without a little comedy, a little song and a little dance? Which make Franco and Hathaway interesting choices because they don't do any of those things. Then again, anything has to be better than last year's wheezy Steve Martin/Alec Baldwin duo. The big question is, will Franco and Hathaway open with a Black Swan parody in matching tutus?

RC: I can't say if they'll start things off with matching tutus, but I think it is a safe bet that leading up to the category Franco is nominated in this year, Best Actor for 127 Hours, there will be jokes about how "disarmingly" handsome he is, or how he "single-handedly" made the movie a success. Wait for those groaners. What everybody wants is for Billy Crystal to come back and host. He's funny, he's likeable, he's a movie star — well, he used to be, anyway — and he keeps the pace of the show chugging along at a nice clip. Hathaway and Franco are both capable performers, but will they be able to keep things moving along?

MB: Yes, Billy Crystal could have been made Oscar Host For Life. But I guess he doesn't mean much overseas except for select neighbourhoods in Tel Aviv. But here's a question: In the Dead Meal Tickets section, which deceased actor will get the greatest applause? Dennis Hopper or Tony Curtis?

RC: The tributes section is always a favourite of mine, but it does often feel as though someone is standing off stage with an Applause-O-Meter judging who gets the biggest reaction. This year? Who knows, maybe Hopper and Curtis will cancel one another out and leave a little love for departed Canadian Corey Haim. Even in death it seems the Oscars are still a giant popularity contest.

Hosting tips

Mark Breslin, the founder of Yuk Yuk's, has five tips for Oscar host Anne Hathaway and James Franco to warm up the crowd.

- 1. Open with a Song. Always worked for Billy Crystal.
- 2. Make a self-deprecating joke.
- 3. Go into the audience and talk directly to celebs.
- 4. Do a little dance. Make a little love. Get down tonight.
- 5. Lots of topical jokes about the business — not the art — of the Hollywood movie.

▶ William Fichtner stars in Drive Angry 3D.

Fichtner takes a drive into hell

STEVE GOW
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

When the script for Drive Angry fell into the lap of William Fichtner, the familiar face from films like Date Night and TV's Prison Break knew he just had to be in the movie.

"Cool part, that's what I thought," explained Fichtner recently in Toronto about playing the devil's right-hand man in the hardcore thriller. "(There's) really no reference point for playing a character like that. It's not like you can call someone up and go, 'You worked in hell for three years, tell me what's going on.'"

A stylized 3-D action flick, Drive Angry casts Nicolas Cage as a mysterious man whose search for his kidnapped granddaughter leads him to a satanic cult even while he's tracked by Satan's own accountant (Fichtner).

As supernatural as that sounds, the film's origin was actually inspired by the rawness of 1970s action films featuring Steve McQueen and Charles Bronson.

"Those were my high school/college years so I loved (those movies)," admitted Fichtner. "As far as the 3-D goes, I don't think I knew (it was 3-D) until a week before we started shooting. My first thought was 'is that good?'"

In this case, it is good. Delivered by the same creative team behind 2009's My Bloody Valentine, Drive Angry (which opens next Friday) utilizes 3-D to full effect hurling ceaseless action in the viewer's face.

Recognized

William Fichtner on what role he's most recognize for:

▶ "I get a lot in airports 'where did you go to school?'" laughed Fichtner. "Yesterday I was walking down the street here in Toronto and somebody came up and quoted a line from an obscure little comedy I did years ago called Drowning Mona. Now that's cool!"

Hall Pass stars get close on the set

Actors Owen Wilson and Jason Sudeikis sound like an old married couple after filming a movie about getting a week off marriage together

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

▶ Owen Wilson and Jason Sudeikis star in Hall Pass.

The Farrelly brothers' latest comedy, Hall Pass, teams up Owen Wilson and Saturday Night Live star Jason Sudeikis as friends given a week off from marriage by their wives, so the two actors knew they'd be seeing a lot of each other. Metro sat down for a chat with the chummy co-stars to talk about the film — and tried to get a word in edgewise.

You guys have a great rapport. It's sort of the —
Jason Sudeikis: (to Owen) I told you!
Owen Wilson: Convince me.

OK, Owen. What did you think was wrong with your rapport with Jason?
OW: Well, no, I think that it was ... Right from the beginning it seemed like, even when we just spoke on the phone, we were going to get along. Also, his schedule is so crazy, having to leave and stuff. He was constantly the new kid. New cliques had formed, and I had to put my arm around him — "Come here! You can still sit here at lunch!"
JS: (to Owen) I remember the first couple weeks, you were like, "God, now I know what it feels like to be from a broken home. Someone goes away and they show up whenever, all willy-nilly."
OW: It really was hard. Like, "God, I can't wait to see Jason ... Oh, he's not here?"

Given your obvious rapport, how was it working with Farrelly brothers as far as improvising material?
OW: They were pretty encouraging for you to try stuff.
JS: Absolutely.
OW: But they definitely wanted to try to get one as scripted, and we could because it was a good, funny script. But yeah.
JS: It wasn't so much improvised like the cameras rolling and you're just burning film. It's usually a discussion.

That muscle gets worked a lot at SNL, so I feel fairly decent at trying to throw my hat in there. It's tough to just run a can of film and expect gold to come out.

There were too many good, thoughtful writing brains on that set to just blue-sky it like that.

The Farrelly brothers have mentioned you guys played a lot of games on set.
OW: They do a game. You know how the newspaper puts people whose birthday it is? He would say whose birthday it was, and then you'd guess how old. And Pete Farrelly dominated.
JS: Like in golf scores, the lowest score wins.

Maybe he just sits home and memorizes people's ages.
JS: He was so good at it, you could almost accuse him of that.
OW: He won so much money.

Number Four not number one

I Am Number Four
Genre: Science-Fiction
Director: D.J. Caruso
Stars: Alex Pettyfer, Timothy Olyphant, Dianna Agron
●½

Isn't it amazing that some movies can fill the screen with action, special effects, and beautiful young actors, and yet somehow still be mind-numbingly boring? I Am Number Four is one of these special cases, a blatant attempt to launch the next teen-driven fantasy franchise like Twilight. The trouble is no one bothered to find source material that will captivate the target audience. Though adapted from a moderately popular novel, work began on the film before the book was published.

Alex Pettyfer stars as a supposedly average teen who is secretly one of the last surviving members of an extinct alien race that is being hunted by another group of aliens. The main problem is that the filmmakers are going for the Spiderman effect of having the audience care equally about the characters' humdrum daily lives and the fantasy world. Sadly, nothing in the "real" sections feel genuine, and the young actors are painfully dull, making this impossible. Sure there are some nice big expensive set pieces, but with no one that the audience can identify with, who cares?

● PHIL BROWN

Small Town Murder Songs
Genre: Drama
Director: Ed Gass-Donnelly
Stars: Peter Stormare, Jill Hennessey

The small town in Ed Gass-Donnelly's drama is a rural Ontario Mennonite community; the murder victim is a teenaged girl left by the side of a lake. The songs are by a Canadian indie rock band, and they're blunt, insistent and ultimately kind of enervating — the ideal accompaniment for a film that's so upfront about its metaphysical agenda. That Peter Stormare is excellent as a cop trying to reconcile his violent past with his duty-bound mentality scarcely matters when the filmmaking is so deliberate. ● ADAM NAYMAN

Unknown
Genre: Thriller
Director: Jaume Collet-Serra
Stars: Liam Neeson, Diane Kruger

A bit of a twist on The Bourne Identity, Unknown tells the story of one man (Liam Neeson) who wakes from a coma in Germany only to discover someone has stolen his identity. And as if that wasn't bad enough, nobody recognizes him (even his wife) and maniac assassins want him dead. The secret is mostly kept hidden until the film's conclusion but for all its clandestine effectiveness, Unknown feels rather heavy-handed in its plotting. ● STEVE GOW

Phil Ochs: There But For Fortune
Genre: Documentary
Director: Kenneth Bowser
●●●½

It would be hard to find many people born after 1970 who know the name Phil Ochs, let alone his music, but during his peak Ochs stood alongside Bob Dylan in the pantheon of anti-war folk singers. Director Kenneth Bowser shows the rise and fall of Ochs, who committed suicide in 1976 at the age of 35, through archival footage and interviews. The film is commendable just for the attempt to bring Ochs music and message to younger generations and Bowser does a good job of keeping the story moving to its inevitable conclusion.
● MATTHEW ROMANADA

A Wake
Genre: Drama
Director: Penelope Buitenhuis
Stars: Graham Abbey, Raoul Bhaneja, Sarain Boylan

A Wake is one of those indie films that traps people in an isolated location to bicker with each other until big secrets are revealed. The movies are typically more acting showcases than anything else and while veteran TV director Penelope Buitenhuis entry to the genre is no exception to that rule, it is better than most. It follows a former acting troupe who meet at their director's wake to indulge in sex, drugs, fights and dark revelations. ● PHIL BROWN

Lemmy
Genre: Documentary
Directors: Greg Olliver, Wes Orshoski

There is more than one point in the documentary Lemmy where someone states without a shred of irony that the Motorhead frontman IS rock and roll and really who can argue? The 63-year-old growling, bass pounding legend is about as anti-establishment as you can get. This gentle, rambling portrait follows Lemmy wandering around Los Angeles, drinking Jack and Coke at the Rainbow Room. Warm, funny and fascinating.

Top 5 presidential movies

While we don't celebrate Presidents Day here in Canada, it's a great excuse for a commander-in-chief movie marathon Here's a look at five favourite 'leaders of the free world,' as depicted on the big screen

Every possible kind of U.S. president has been depicted on screen: corrupt ones and honourable ones, real ones and fictional ones.

So with Presidents Day coming, it's as good a chance as any to say hail to the chief. Here's a look at five favourite movie presidents.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Henry Fonda in Fail-Safe (1964)
Fonda is everything you'd want in a president. He's decisive but even-tempered, commanding but kind. He is, in short, a good man. And when he has to make the most difficult choices imaginable in the face of nuclear annihilation, he's calm and gracious every step of the way.

Peter Sellers in Dr. Strangelove or: How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb (1964)
Stanley Kubrick's biting political satire allows Sellers to show off the breadth of his transformative powers in three parts: as British Group Captain Lionel Mandrake, former Nazi Dr. Strangelove and President Merkin Muffley.

Kevin Kline in Dave (1993)
One of Kline's best performances in one of the best films Ivan Reitman ever directed and Gary Ross ever wrote. Dave happens to look exactly like President Bill Mitchell, and is secretly called on to impersonate Mitchell when the president suffers a stroke.

John Travolta in Primary Colors (1998)
With the combination of Mike Nichols' direction and his longtime collaborator Elaine May's script, Primary Colors is going to be sharp and insightful. But Travolta brings the film to life — and does some of the best work of his career — as Gov. Jack Stanton. He's charming in that smooth, Southern way.

Josh Brolin in W (2008)
A rather conventional biopic, but Brolin's so good, he almost makes us feel sorry for George W. Bush. Almost. He gets the innate humour within the frequent buffoonery — and he's got the demeanour down pat — but he also seems to recognize the tragedy of this figure, a man who was in way over his head.

#60

Guaranteed better than all others they used say dozens of delighted users with full names and towns on the Bell website. Works by cleansing blood inside rather than attacking skin from the outside and leaving the actual cause untreated. Here are a few examples:

ACNE
Eczema
Psoriasis
Rosacea
Rashes

By Dr. C. Hammoud Ph.D.

■ I had terrible Acne for 3 years and tried Benzoyl Peroxide, Proactiv, Aloe Vera and others. After 4 days taking the Bell natural product #60 it started to clear up my skin. My skin changed from terrible to beautiful. Mylene Theriault, 19, Sorel-Tracy, QC ■ In 2 days my son's face completely cleared up of acne. My son is 15 and suffered for 3 years. We used many products like laser, Clean Clear, Neem that did not work or burned his skin. Veronica Marden, Seminole, TX ■ Unbelievable acne free beautiful skin Last couple of years I had acne and tried every product like Murad, Proactiv and antibiotics. Results with #60 were unbelievable. Thanks for giving me beautiful skin and my self-esteem. Nelisa Royer, 28, Doral, FL ■ Within 6 days eczema cleared up completely. I believe #60 addresses the cause internally instead of the symptoms. Latifa Boutshik, 43, North York, ON ■ I had severe psoriasis over 95% of my body. Last 5 years I have stunned every doctor and dermatologist. I spent tons of money on remedies. After I got Bell #60, I've never seen anything work as fast in my life. Within 2 days I saw my skin clearing up. I'm speechless. It was inexpensive compared with what I spent before. Jessica Shantz, 25, Dawson Creek, BC ■ All statements made on the Bell website are sent by delighted users. All are real people. Most have listed phone numbers and can be called for advice. No money is paid to them. Their reward is the relief they are getting. All say #60 works within days not months, not years. It's more effective than what they used before. It is less expensive (some acne suppliers ship monthly and charge monthly, which may amount to large sums yearly). No side effects were reported on #60.

SNORING? SLEEP APNEA?

Most older men and many women snore and have sleep apnea (gasping for air) :

To my surprise, after taking Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Relief #23 I really didn't snore or gasp for air anymore. I sleep through the night and feel rested and refreshed in the morning. Mark Wilson, 40, Hudson, NH ■ Sleep apnea capsules worked first night! For last 15 years I had sleep apnea and my doctor made me buy a CPAP machine, which I could not use. Finally Bell #23 helped the first night and every night thereafter. Like a miracle. Unbelievable. Karen Braun, 67, Glace Bay, NS ■ For 20 years I was waking up frequently gasping for air. During the day I would start napping every time I would sit down, because I was tired. Since taking Bell #23 sleeping 6 hours is heaven. It made a substantial change in my life. Mary C. Myrick, 62, Jackson, MS ■ It is such a joy not having to use the CPAP machine. I have had sleep apnea for 10 years. I was skeptical about Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Eze #23. After using it for 3 weeks my wife says there is no more snoring or gasping for breath or stoppage of breathing. It is such a joy to be able to roll to left or right with no hose or mask to deal with and can get up with no restrictions. Thank you Bell for a great relief. I suggest anyone with these problems to try it. You will be overjoyed with the results. Wayne Burse, 63, Beamsville, ON. Phone numbers on our website.

Lower Blood Pressure

High blood pressure is called the silent killer. If your BP is higher than normal, try to get it down to about 120/80. For many people it is easy to control. If it does not work for you we refund your money. On our website you will find over 50 testimonials with full names and towns from all over USA and Canada. Most of them have listed phone numbers and are happy to talk about the relief they had. No money was paid for testimonials.

Examples: "After 2 weeks BP down from 138/98 to 111/74!"; "Was on 3 BP meds that didn't work. Bell finally worked for me!"; "Bell blood pressure combo is the best!"; "I had great success with all Bell health products!"; "Blood pressure dropped 25 points!"; "Finally a blood pressure relief without side effects!"; "I passed medical for my pilots license!";

Helps with back pain, inflammation, stomach troubles, strengthens heart muscle and circulation, reduces nervousness and insomnia.

With Cayenne pepper Dr. D. Servan-Schreiber M.D. writes in his book "ANTICANCER" pepper multiplies the body's absorption of curcumin by two thousand times. ■ Lower back pain relief. Took 2 capsules and 1 at night. Next morning my back pain was completely gone. Heating pad and drugs did not help. Valerie Peoples, 53, Jonesboro, GA ■ Parking ticket officer had stress relief, no more angina chest pain, increased blood circulation in cold whether, has now also warm hands and feet. Joel Phelps, 47, Windsor, ON ■ For 30 years had inflammation in my foot from ball games. A good Turmeric was recommended (Curcumin is an extract). After 1 day had 90% pain relief. I was amazed how quickly it took effect. As a bonus had other health benefits including insomnia relief. Dan DeZorzi, 42, Maidstone, ON ■ Runner had pain in shins and feet and needed icing after runs. After 3 days using Curcumin 2000X I run pain free and no more icing needed. Shelly Bracken, 36, Rosyln, MB

Arcade told to parlez Francais

Fete Nationale organizers say Arcade Fire can perform — but not in English

They may be the toast of the music world but, if they ever want to play the Fete Nationale celebration in their own hometown, Arcade Fire won't be allowed to do it in English.

Organizers of Montreal's Fete Nationale celebration say the band would have to sing their songs in French, like any other act playing at the festival for Quebec's annual holiday.

The chief organizer said Wednesday that the Grammy-winning band would be welcome to play the June 24 event if they wanted to.

"As long as they conform to certain guidelines," Luc Savard, director general of the event, told The Canadian Press.

When asked whether those guidelines included not singing in English, and performing in French instead, Savard replied, "Voila."

The question of whether Arcade Fire will attend is actually moot for this year: the group will be touring Europe this summer, and Savard says this year's acts are already booked anyway.

Arcade Fire does include the occasional French line in its songs but the band, and its U.S.-born frontman, sing almost exclusively in English.

When they took to the stage at the Grammys they expressed thanks, in English and French, to the city of Montreal and later gushed to reporters backstage about their love for the place.

After winning the best-album Grammy this week, the group went on to England where they were named the top international band at the BRIT awards.

▶ Did you know that lead singer Edwin Butler, who grew up in Texas, has lived for almost a decade in Montreal, where he met his wife and fellow band member, Regine Chassagne.

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

WHY DO WE STAND FOR BAD SOUND?

Beginning in the late 1940s, we've been told to upgrade to a new type of music playback medium every five or six years so that we are able to experience better sound.

If you're brave enough to step into my basement, you will find CDs, LPs, 12-inch singles, 7-inch singles, cassettes, a couple of 8-tracks, a pile of DAT tapes, assorted MiniDiscs, some rescued concert recordings on 10-inch reel-to-reel tape and probably a couple of 78's.

Under the stairs is a pile of 12-inch Laserdiscs that I'm willing to let go cheap. (I'll even throw in the player!)

The International Standard Organization has approved the algorithms that make music as MP3 files possible in 1991. Twenty years on, the public's love affair with the format's convenience seems to know no end.

We're firmly into the digital age. Global digital music sales reached $4.6 billion in 2010, which equals about 30 per cent of all sales by record labels.

The MP3 rules.

But despite the severe high-fidelity shortcomings of MP3s, most people seem completely happy with what they deliver. (The same goes for Apple's AAC format, which is what you get when you buy a song through iTunes.)

Although technology used in today's hard drives keeps driving the cost of storage lower and lower, few music consumers seem interested in switching to a better sounding codec like FLAC. A song ripped to FLAC is about four times larger than when ripped to MP3 — but if you've got the room, who cares?

Outside of hardcore audiophiles, no one seemed bothered that the public is listening to music with sonic qualities that are substantially worse than what we heard from vinyl 30 years ago. I find it strange — and rather depressing — that while we continue to demand bigger and better HD and 3-D TVs, few people are demanding that the audio quality of their music gets better.

Your favourite rock heroes have gone through a whole lotta changes

METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

You don't maintain a 40-year career in the music business without reinventing yourself every once in a while. Former Led Zeppelin frontman Robert Plant is the most recent rock veteran to undergo a seemingly effortless transition into another successful phase of his career, with his second bluegrass flavoured album, Band of Joy. Here we look at the drastic changes he's made throughout his tenure in the music industry and the drastic changes of some of his peers.

DAVE HOGAN/GETTY IMAGES

Robert Plant

First contact: As the singer for Led Zeppelin in the '60s and '70s, Plant and pals basically define how hard rock should sound.

First change: After Zep's breakup in 1980, Plant made a string of solo albums with a decidedly modern feel, eschewing the emphasis on guitars that made his band such a hit.

Big surprise: Plant's 1985 EP with the Honeydrippers was '50s covers. The song Sea of Love became his biggest hit, which reportedly upset the singer, as he feared he'd be known for this style.

New horizons: Raising Sand, Plant's first foray into bluegrass with singer Alison Krauss, is a commercial success and wins the Album of the Year Grammy in 2009. This halts any plans of a Zep reunion tour.

Neil Young

DARREN HAUCK/GETTY IMAGES

First contact: In the '60s, Young established himself as a solo artist, a guitarist for Buffalo Springfield and a collaborator with Crosby, Stills and Nash.

First change: Singing in an electronic voice against synthesizers, 1982's Trans album didn't sound like anything he'd done before.

Big surprise: His follow-up, Everybody's Rockin', was all rockabilly tunes; it was so un-Neil Young that his label sued him for making music unrepresentative of himself.

New horizons: As grunge became popular in the '90s, Young was cited as a major inspiration. It seemed to help him reclaim his past, while experimenting further.

David Bowie

DAVE HOGAN/GETTY IMAGES

First contact: Bowie's 1969 ode to astronauts, Space Oddity, laid the groundwork to show us that this was one weird artist worth watching. For 40 years, he has not disappointed.

First change: One of his first ch-ch-ch-changes was his invention of the alter-ego persona Ziggy Stardust, whom he used to dress up as throughout the early '70s.

Big surprise: After a decade of artsy reinventions and experiments, in the '80s, Bowie resurfaced with Let's Dance, a slick pop look and sound.

New horizons: Bowie has continued to push boundaries, dabbling in noise rock and electronica with good results. However, he hasn't released an album of new material since 2003's Reality.

KEVIN WINTER/GETTY IMAGES

Bob Dylan

First contact: Arriving on the scene in 1962, Dylan's poetic original lyrics and folk guitar accompaniment make him a hero to a generation of aspiring folkies.

First change: In 1965, Dylan is ready for his times to be a-changin' — he plays an electric guitar at the Newport Folk Festival, upsetting many fans.

Big surprise: Three-way tie between 1969's country-tinged Nashville Skyline, his 1979 born-again Christian LP, Slow Train Coming and 2009's Christmas in the Heart.

New horizons: Dylan continues to tour and release albums. As anybody who has witnessed him live or listened to his latest releases will tell you, both pursuits are of varying quality.

Mel's ex awaits verdict

Could face jail time if found guilty of extortion

Los Angeles sheriffs have wrapped up a seven-month investigation into whether Oksana Grigorieva extorted ex-boyfriend Mel Gibson for millions of dollars using recorded phone calls in which he was verbally abusive and threatening, according to People magazine.

Investigators also looked into claims that Gibson was physically abusive to Grigorieva. Prosecutors will now decide how to proceed, and if Grigorieva is found guilty of extortion, she could face several years in prison.

Despite what's become a bitter custody battle and war of words, Halle Berry and Gabriel Aubry seem to be putting their differences aside for the sake of their daughter, according to Radar Online.

"Gabriel and Halle even resumed talking again last week, and it seems that Halle is going to be making it easier for Gabriel to spend time with Nahla, which has been a sticking point between the two up till now," a source says.

"Hopefully this is the start of the two of them being able to form some kind of workable co-parenting relationship for the sake of their daughter."

Fantasia snubbed at Grammy's?

While she was nominated for a Grammy — and won — Fantasia Barrino decided to sit out the ceremony because she wasn't invited to be part of the star-studded Aretha Franklin tribute that opened the show, she tells BET.

"They were honouring someone who was my idol, and there is no way I could have sat there and not got the happy feet and wanted to jump on the mic because she is my favourite," she says.

"I felt like, you know, at the end of the day I should have been on that stage."

CBS duped by Lohan's dad

Executives at CBS claim they were duped by someone in Lindsay Lohan's inner circle into believing that the troubled actress would appear on David Letterman's show to read the Top 10 List, and it turns out that certain someone was her dad, Michael Lohan.

"Someone purporting to be a friend of Lindsay's reached out to the show, allegedly on her behalf, and booked her to appear," a statement from CBS reads. "Clearly, this person was not authorized to make commitments on her behalf."

In his defense, Michael says Lindsay liked the idea, but it was shot down by her handlers. "Anything positive that I bring into her life ... [her people] try to nix it," he says.

Natalie Portman is reportedly expecting a baby boy with fiancée Benjamin Millepied, according to Life & Style.

"They've only told a very small group of family members and friends that they're expecting a son," a source tells the magazine.

"They are so excited. Benjamin cannot wait to be a father."

Portman, who is due in the spring or early summer, opted to skip last week's British Academy of Film and Television Awards in London because of her pregnancy.

Though no one knows better than I that you can't judge a wine by its looks, that hasn't stopped me from being a closet fan of eye-catching labels.

If a winery has put some effort into its front panel (and by effort I mean some ingenuity that doesn't look like it was birthed by a team of business suits), I'm curious to find out if the juice delivers the same wow factor.

That's what initially intrigued me about Kilikanoon Wines' 2007 The Lackey Shiraz ($17.95 - $19.99). I was drawn to the Aussie wine's strikingly simple black and white label, which displays its name in rustic bold letters and a haphazardly dropped pair of Blundstone boots.

Like the nearly indestructible footwear, The Lackey keeps on trucking with a dark, thick, youthful black fruit flavour and a lingering licorice spice trail that sets it apart from all the cookie cutter shiraz out there.

Enjoying curries can add a little spice to your life, and keeping curry powder or Thai curry paste in your pantry will help give big flavour to your quick dinner ideas.

Use fresh curry powder for the best flavour and be sure to store it away from heat sources. Also, go to bulk stores or spice markets where you can purchase a small amount if you haven't used it before.

You can buy Thai curry paste in grocery stores in jars or envelopes. Once it is opened, store it in the refrigerator. Curry paste has a long shelf life but be sure to check the best-before dates on the jar.

Once you get a taste of both these flavourful curries you will want to kick up the flavour in the kitchen more often.

For this first recipe, combine fresh vegetables with must-have ingredients in your pantry for a five-ingredient Thai soup that will win rave reviews.

- 1 tbsp (15 mL) Thai red, green or yellow curry paste
- 1 lb (500 g) top sirloin grilling steak, thinly sliced
- 1 onion, sliced
- 2 red bell peppers, sliced
- ½ cup (125 mL) beef stock or water
- ½ cup (125 mL) coconut milk or sour cream
- 2 tbsp (25 mL) fish sauce
- ¼ cup (50 mL) chopped fresh basil or coriander

Simple beef curry, exciting taste

Preparation:

1. In a large skillet or wok, heat oil over medium-high heat. Add curry paste and cook for 30 seconds. Add beef and stir-fry for 5 minutes. Remove to plate.
2. Add onion and peppers to skillet; cook, stirring for about 10 minutes or until vegetables begin to brown. Add stock, coconut milk, fish sauce and browned beef; simmer for about 5 minutes or until slightly thickened. Stir in basil.

Options:

Vegetarian: Use 1 pgk (350 g) extra firm tofu, cubed, instead of the beef. Replace fish sauce, with soy sauce.

Chicken: You can use 1 lb boneless, skinless chicken breasts, cut into chunks for the beef. Use chicken stock.

I fell in love with Toronto. It's one of the most effortlessly multicultural cities in the world and is both an inspiring and magical place to be on a day-to-day basis. Over the past 30 years, the city has gone from being lovely to a vivacious and glorious metropolis. Toronto is in full cultural boom and the art community is incredible. Museums, art galleries, opera houses and fashion boutiques are cropping up on every street corner.

Go for tradition

DOUG BROWN

CN Tower

If you like tradition, you can afford to be a little bit tacky and go up the CN tower (cntower.ca). Going to the top is the best way of getting a panoramic view of the city and lake.

Canada is all about hockey so if you can get to a game one night — it's worth it. If not, you'll have a great night at Real Sports Bar & Grill (realsports.ca). It has North America's largest indoor TV screen and shows all major games. Its chicken wings are bar food 'par excellence'. One tip, the best way to get from A to B is on the subway or a cab, both cheap options.

Take in some art

Visit the Ontario Art Gallery as it truly reflects the extent to which the city "thinks big." The architectural style is a real labour of love. In the evening, I would recommend going to the opera. Although it was built above the subway, the acoustics are gorgeous.

Queen Street is a great retail area and in case you get hungry, there is the Thai Queen Mother Café (queenmother-cafe.ca), which serves some great edamame and pad thai. The ultimate way to end the day would be on the Thompson Hotel balcony (thompsonhotels.com). The view takes in the entire city and it's simply gorgeous.

Shopping!

Ossington Avenue is the city's hottest shopping street right now. The shops along here sell the best vintage deals and you can get anything from clothes to trinkets that come with style, character and authenticity. Even in the middle of the freezing winter, Ossington remains a lively avenue filled with boutiques, cafes and restaurants.

Eat

In Little India the food is cheap and mouthwatering. I also love hanging out at the trattorias in Little Italy. The street life is incredible and the food is mind-blowing. Book a table at Nota Bene, a high-calibre restaurant where head chef David Lee spent months coming up with the best organic beef burger you'll sink your teeth into. To balance it out, order hot and sour soup.

I'm also a big fan of Vietnamese food, especially pho soup. There are two places to go for a bowl that should not cost more than $6, one is the Golden Turtle and the other is Pho.

Leafs in a bind with injured goaltenders

It was only two weeks ago when it looked like the Toronto Maple Leafs had too many goalies. Now GM Brian Burke is desperately searching for some healthy bodies.

"(We're) working on it," Burke wrote Thursday via email. "Need at least one, and maybe two."

A rash of injuries has hit the organization and left it with only two healthy goalies — current No. 1 man James Reimer and AHLer Ben Scrivens.

The latest goaltender to go down was J.S. Giguere, who suffered a lower-body injury during Toronto's 2-1 victory in Buffalo Wednesday. The veteran battled groin injuries earlier in the season and wasn't sure if the ailment was related to his past.

"Right now it is minor," Giguere said after the game in Buffalo. "(But) if it's related to what I've had before this year it might be something a little bit more major. We'll see what's going to come out of it."

Jonas Gustavsson had to pull himself from a Feb. 9 game with an elevated heart rate while on a conditioning stint with the AHL's Marlies. The 26-year-old needed a third heart ablation procedure and was placed on injured reserve.

Neither the Leafs or Marlies practised Thursday. Giguere was expected to see a doctor, but the results of that visit weren't immediately available. If he's unable to serve as Reimer's backup for Saturday's game against Ottawa, Burke will need to fill two openings.

Scrivens started both games for the Marlies in Winnipeg this week and was backed up by Steve Christie, a University of Manitoba goaltender who signed an amateur tryout to fill in on an emergency basis. THE CANADIAN PRESS

New face of the franchise

Blue Jays lock up Bautista for five years with $64-million extension

The Toronto Blue Jays locked up Jose Bautista with a $64-million US, five-year extension Thursday, an intriguing contract with a strong element of both risk and reward.

The deal allows the sides to avoid arbitration along with a season full of questions over the 2010 home run king's long-term status while putting in place another franchise cornerstone.

Terms of the deal are $8 million in 2011, with subsequent $14-million salaries in each of 2012 to 2015. The club holds an option of $14 million for the 2016 season.

"I'm just really excited and ecstatic to wear the Blue Jays uniform."
JOSE BAUTISTA

"This is one of the biggest days of my life — for myself and my family," Bautista told a news conference.

The $64-million commitment is by far the largest yet made by general manager Alex Anthopoulos, who last season signed ace lefty Ricky Romero to a $30.1-million, five-year deal and first baseman Adam Lind to an $18-million, four-year deal that could be worth up to $38.5 million with three club options.

Anthopoulos called the 30-year-old Bautista "a core building block going forward for this organization."

The Bautista contract is believed to be the fourth-largest in total compensation ever handed out by the franchise, trailing only those given to Vernon Wells ($126 million, seven years), Alex Rios ($69.8 million) and Carlos Delgado ($68 million, four years).

Bautista doesn't have the same kind of track record that trio had when it signed its deals, which is why this agreement will be watched closely throughout the baseball world.

The challenge in coming up with a contract for Bautista was gauging what is fair market value for a player who hit a club-record 54 home runs last year, more than tripling his previous career high of 16.

Eligible for free agency in the fall, Bautista needed enough incentive to forgo the open market, while the Blue Jays needed protection in case his production reverts to previous levels.

With an average annual salary of $13 million or so, both sides apparently found the common ground they were seeking.

NHL crews ready for Heritage Classic

Calgary cold snap is forecast to dissipate in time for Sunday's game

Mother Nature is treating the NHL's second outdoor game this season much kinder than the first.

Warm, damp conditions forced the league to push the Winter Classic at Pittsburgh's Heinz Field on Jan. 1 from an afternoon to an evening start in an attempt to avoid rain. The game was rained on anyway.

There will be no such sogginess Sunday in the NHL Heritage Classic between the Calgary Flames and Montreal Canadiens at McMahon Stadium (CBC, RDS, Versus, pre-game 5 p.m. ET).

"No matter what game it is ... we know that all of these points are huge."
FLAMES FORWARD DAVID MOSS

Temperatures in Calgary steadily dropped over the last week to minus-20 on Thursday morning, providing the NHL's Dan Craig with the ideal conditions to create two inches of ice on the field.

A few flurries Thursday night and continuing cold into the weekend was Environment Canada's prediction. Temperatures are expected to rise to a more spectator-friendly high of minus-one, with clear skies and a light breeze out of the south.

"That's what we want," Craig said.

If the forecast holds, the Heritage Classic in Calgary will feel more comfortable for players than the previous one in Edmonton in 2003, that had a wind chill of minus-30

Frigid temperatures aren't ideal for ice as it can turn brittle, but Craig is combating that in Calgary with a heat line to the ice to keep the base at an even minus-10.

Calgary's recent revival on the ice is directly linked to the building buzz around the Heritage Classic. Just seven weeks ago, making the playoffs seemed like a pipe dream for a team sitting second-last in the Western Conference.

A 14-4-5 record since general manager Darryl Sutter resigned Dec. 28 boosted the Flames (30-22-8) into a five-way tie for fourth place Thursday.

SPORTS PUSHING THE BOUNDARIES OF SAFETY

The casualties are mounting and sport is facing its greatest crisis. How much risk is too much and at what price is "faster, higher, stronger," too dear?

In the space of one year, Nodar Kumaritashvili, the Georgian luger, lost his life at the Olympics. Then Austrian skier Hans Grugger lost control at the famed downhill ski course in Kitzbuhel and spent weeks in a coma. Now, Sidney Crosby, the bread and butter of the NHL, languishes because of post-concussion syndrome. Lindsey Vonn pulled out of the world alpine ski championships, struggling with a concussion.

So what is acceptable in the pursuit of high-performance sport and reckless disregard for the athlete's well being?

"It's the unknown," says Brian Stemmle, who spent 14 years on the Canadian alpine ski team. "Is the athlete going to win or crash and burn? That's why I watch. Risk makes it extremely exciting because you have so much to lose."

Ironically, Stemmle nearly lost his life in a sickening 1989 crash. He was in hospital for three months with a broken pelvis and massive internal injuries. He recovered and competed at three more Olympics. Still, it was a journey that came with a high price.

"My life almost ended because I made a mistake in a place where safety wasn't up to standard," Stemmle recounted. "As a parent I wouldn't want to go through what my parents had to endure."

That's why sport on every level has to protect its assets — its athletes — in order to ensure long-term survival.

Therefore, all competitions must meet safety standards. Intentional hits to the head must be abolished. Those not qualified to compete shouldn't. Officials need to enforce the rules.

"Safety for the athletes needs to be the No. 1 concern," Stemmle says.

"We also need educated people looking out for us. Doctors, coaches, trainers and therapists need to mitigate injuries by taking precautions. You can't let an athlete compete who isn't one hundred per cent (healthy)."

And you can't let sport become a death defying game where the laws of the jungle apply.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Someone you meet on your travels over the next 24 hours will become not only a friend but also a collaborator in some kind of creative project. There is a chemistry between you.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 The planets indicate that if you have a plan and if you make a serious effort to put that plan into effect there is nothing you cannot accomplish. Self-belief is necessary, too, of course.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 The Sun in Aquarius has endowed you with no end of confidence, and you're going to need it over the next few days. Today though, you should take a trip of some kind. You'll think better when on the move.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 There is no point trying to convince yourself that everything is fine when all your senses, including your sixth sense, are telling a different story. Something is bothering you and the time has come to deal with it.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 A full moon in your sign will help overcome any embarrassment you might feel at revealing your innermost feelings. Even if you are the kind of Leo who rarely gets emotional, share what's in your heart.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You have begun a lot of new things since the start of the year but how many of them mean much to you? Give it some thought throughout the day.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 This is a good day for getting things done. If you are smart, you will get them done by yourself. There will be a fair amount of tension in the air, so keep your distance if you can.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Sometimes, you can be ultra sensitive to criticism. If you hit back at people whose opinions you don't much like today, there could be a falling out.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 You'll have no problem letting others know what you think and feel — the full moon in Leo compels you to speak your mind. Don't forget that words, like actions, have consequences. Think before you open your mouth.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You may or may not come into money over the next 24 hours, but you will certainly be thinking about your finances. Whatever you decide, avoid get-rich-quick schemes.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 If you focus your energy in a single direction today you might achieve something remarkable. There can be no more doubts and no more wondering if you are making the right move. Don't think — act.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 It's time to get rid of a fear that has no basis in reality. It does not matter what caused it, it matters only that you grow out of it. Start living with purpose. SALLY BROMPTON
